

The Crown by Kiera Cass

The fifth and final book in The Selection Series. It is about the daughter of the previous Prince and girl from the rest of the four books, but this time, she is having a selection of her own, with 25 boys. She hates the idea of the Selection and tries many ways to get out of it, until she starts to enjoy the company of the boys and falls in love with one.

I read this book because it is the last book in The Selection Series. I loved how the main character in this book absolutely hated the Selection and any idea of it. You can feel sympathy for the girl as for the reason she is even doing a selection is for a distraction because of society problems. I wasn't surprised that I liked this book since the previous books in the series were AMAZING (highly recommend, go read it). I feel like I can relate to the main character because many times teens have to choose between hard choices and there's a lot of stress going on and this is exactly what this girl goes through. Many times we do things we don't want but we end up with a positive outcome and that is exactly what happened with this girl. I won't give anything away but the ending was great and if you're in for surprises, this book is worth the read. Just read the other books before this one (although it is not totally necessary for you to understand the story line if you did not read them). Loved this whole series and this book ended the series on an amazing note!
